IEEE ITSS Italian Chapter Annual Meeting and PhD Award

Description

In agreement with the IEEE ITSS mission and vision, the main objectives of the Italian Chapter are the creation of a collaborative environment allowing the establishment or reinforcement of cooperation among members, the involvement of young students and researchers, and the communication of the main activities and innovative results to the stakeholders in the field of intelligent transportation systems (public institutions, private companies, associations). To this aim, the Chapter is promoting the event.

IEEE ITSS Italian Chapter Annual Meeting and PhD Award

Keynote Speech - abstract

Over the last decade, we received several promises that the autonomous vehicles were around the corner, but we are still waiting. In this presentation, Prof. Fernando Garcia, head of the Autonomous Mobility and Perception Lab (AMPL), from Universidad Carlos III de Madrid, will review the current situation of autonomous vehicles and the challenges that lie ahead. He will present the solutions proposed by AMPL in this regard, and what is to come, based on the different collaborations with automotive actors.
